Dear Jane E. Henney,

I am contacting you to express my concern about genetically engineered foods being sold in the marketplace with out being properly labeled.

I would urge you to take whatever steps are necessary to ensure that genetically engineered food and products that contain genetically engineered foods are properly labeled.

Science is not certain that these food are safe for use. Also, it could be creating "superweeds" and harming insects such as ladybugs.

I would appreciate hearing from you with whatever steps you can take, or I would recommend that I do to ensure that this happens.

Thank you - C6001
